Lucy's father: "Ok! Enjoy! See you later!"
Tom: "Where is the museum? Do you have a map?"
Lucy: "No! We'll have to ask someone!"
Lucy: "Hi! Excuse me madam, do you know where the Calico Textile Museum is?"
Woman: "Yes, sure. Go straight ahead, turn to the left, turn to the right, then pass the road and go under the bridge!"
Lucy: "Ummm... Ok, thank you!"
Lucy: "Ummmm, I think we are lost now..."
Tom: "No, look ! There it is!"

Tom: "It was fun! Gosh! I'm hungry!"

Lucy: "Yeah! Let's have a curry!"
Waitress: "What would you like for lunch?"
Lucy's mother: "We'd like 4 vegetable curries with rice and for the dessert, we'd like jalebis please."

Tom: "Thank you!" Lucy's mother: "Thank you very much!" Lucy's little sister: "Yummy!"
Lucy: "It's delicious!"

Tom: "Oh! This shop is amazing. There are lots of kites!"
Kite Seller: "Can I help you?"
Lucy: "Yes, we're looking for kites please!"
Kite Seller: "Great! You're in the right place! How many kites would you like?"
Lucy: "One for my sister, one for Tom and one for me!"
Kite Seller: "Ok, 3 kites. What kind of kite would you like? We have everything you want."
Lucy's little sister: "I like the rainbow-coloured kite! I want this one!"
Lucy: "I'd like... the striped kite... Oh no, this one! The red triangular kite!"
Tom: "I'd like a green one... I'm not sure if I'll choose a square kite or a rectangular kite... What do you think Lucy?"
Lucy: "I prefer the square kite!"

Tom: "All right then! How much are they please?"
Kite seller: "The rainbow-coloured kite is at 625 Indian rupees and the other ones are at 499 rupees."
